

Hoag Family Cancer Institute

Empowered by philanthropy, Hoag's vision for the future of cancer care is being realized. Through innovative programs, physician recruitment, applied genomics, clinical research, and novel therapies, the Hoag Family Cancer Institute is ushering in a new era of cancer care that prioritizes prevention and detection at the earliest possible stage, giving cancer patients access to technologies and therapies not often found elsewhere.

Impact by the Numbers

67

new clinical trials started in the past 12 months

300+

oncology nurses attended Hoag's annual conference to further advancement of immunotherapy

100+

patients participate annually in private consultations and workshops, providing support for the physical changes that often accompany cancer treatment

100+

patients supported each year with lodging and transportation assistance through the philanthropically funded Bridge Program

Recent Wins Thanks to Philanthropy

- Led by Dr. Gary Ulaner, James & Pamela Muzzy Endowed Chair in Molecular Imaging and Therapy, Hoag became the first site worldwide to enroll patients in two prostate cancer clinical trials, providing unique imaging and therapy options not yet available at most cancer centers.
- Enhancing Hoag's cancer research team, philanthropy enabled Hoag to welcome Drs. Monica and Alain Mita from Cedars-Sinai as co-directors of early phase drug development.
- In partnership with the Orange County Fire Authority, Dr. Steven Wang used philanthropy-funded technology to provide precise skin cancer screenings for local firefighters, improving detection through advanced imaging tools.

Renowned & Recognized

- Hoag Family Cancer Institute is in the top 10% for overall patient satisfaction.
- Hoag Family Cancer Institute became the first community hospital in Orange County to offer phase I clinical trials.
- U.S. News & World Report ranked Hoag as high performing for Colon Cancer Surgery, Lung Cancer Surgery, and Prostate Cancer Surgery, as well as Leukemia, Lymphoma, & Myeloma.

Grateful Patient Spotlight:

Hoag Family Cancer Institute's "Band of Warriors" Support Cancer Patient

"I am grateful for my 'band of warriors' at the Hoag Family Cancer Institute (HFCI) who cared for me during my cancer journey. With their compassionate and innovative care, they provided me with strength, confidence, and a path to good health. Their words of encouragement—"We've got you, Deb"—continue to help me navigate my recovery.

For those of you who have supported HFCI programs, thank you for providing Hoag with the ability to create this experience for me and the thousands of cancer patients who walk through the doors each year. I am forever grateful."

-Deb, grateful patient

For more information, contact Heidi Saravia, executive director, Hoag Family Cancer Institute at (949) 764-7238 or Heidi.Saravia@hoag.org.

HoagHospitalFoundation.org

hoag[®]
Hospital
Foundation